

APOLLO

A(UGUSTA) BAKER'S DOZEN: A CELEBRATION OF STORIES

SATURDAY STORYTELLING FOR FAMILIES

A FANTASTIC OUTDOOR EVENT OF STORYTELLING, THEATRE AND MUSIC.

11 A.M. – 2 P.M., SATURDAY, APRIL 21

RICHLAND COUNTY PUBLIC LIBRARY, 1431 ASSEMBLY ST., COLUMBIA, S.C.

FEATURED GUEST BRYAN COLLIER WILL SIGN BOOKS FROM 11 A.M. TO 2 P.M.

11 a.m. Dutch Fork High School Players

DFHS players present a collage of author illustrator Bryan Collier's work through an adaptation of selected stories. Under the direction of Dr. Cynthia Seel, the Dutch Fork High School Theatre Department has brought to life many of Collier's images that already leap from the page.

11:30 a.m. Minerva King

Specializing in African, African-American, Caribbean, Jewish and Native America folklore, Charleston's Minerva King delights in engaging her audiences in her programs, often using songs and musical instruments to enhance them. She has performed at Stone Soup, Live Oak, Spoleto, MOJA, BASH and A(ugusta) Baker's Dozen.

12 p.m. John Fowler

An Appalachian storyteller, John Fowler entertains all ages with his rich storytelling and old time music. Folk tales, spoon playing, banjos and washboards are all a part of his fun filled program. Find out more at www.hairytoe productions.com.

12:30 p.m. Ramona Moore Big Eagle

An oral historian, legend keeper and full time professional storyteller, Ramona Moore Big Eagle shares Native American culture through interactive storytelling. She has been using authentic artifacts, music, drumming, dance and crafts to educate and empower audiences of all ages since 1976.

1 p.m. Darion McCloud

An accomplished storyteller with more than 10 years experience, Darion McCloud is a favorite of many school children and has told in settings ranging from prisons to television. Also in demand as an actor, he is a company member with TRUSTUS Theatre, The South Carolina Shakespeare Co. and the NiA Company, where he is also Artistic Director.

1:30 p.m. Lunch Money

Lunch Money performs songs about everything from train cabooses to dizziness, bringing the live music experience to young audiences. Performing original songs with titles like "Cookie As Big As My Head" and "It Only Takes One Night to Make a Balloon Your Friend," the band has a lot of fun rocking out around the nation. The band chose the name Lunch Money to honor that first taste of childhood independence and power. Find out more at www.lunchmoneymusic.com.
